BY PRIVATE TREATY, THE VERY CHARMING

RESIDENCE AT STACKHOUSE,

NEAR SETTLE,

Now in the occupation of Mr. Thos. Brayshaw.

The House stands in its own Grounds of 2a. 3r. 11p., or thereabouts. These Grounds are tastefully laid out with Asphalt Walks, Rockeries, Summer-houses, Shaded Paths, Choice Shrubs, Flowering Trees, Tennis and other Lawns, Fountain, Kitchen Garden, Greenhouses, &c. The Out-buildings comprise Manservant's Cottage, Stabling for three horses, Coach House, Shippon, Barn, Coal-house, Carpenter's Shop, Tool-houses, Poultry Houses, &c. The Dwelling-house itself, having been occupied by the owner, has been kept in very good repair; it contains on the Ground-floor—Entrance Hall, Drawing-room, Dining-room, Library, Two Good Kitchens, Pantry and Larder. On the First Floor—Six Bedrooms, Dressing-room, Airing-room, Bath Room and Lavatory (with hot and cold water), W.C., and conveniences such as Recess Cupboards, Safe, &c. There are also large Attics, good Cellar, &c.

The House is most substantially built, most of the walls being from 2 to 3 feet thick. It faces to the south, and is pleasantly sheltered. The front is covered with Trellis-work, with Evergreens and Flowering Climbers. It is indeed very seldom that such a charming and convenient little place comes into the market. There is an excellent supply of water from the Settle water works, whilst large Iron and Slate Cisterns afford a good store of soft water.

The House is situate one mile from Settle, and a mile from the noted Grammar School at Giggleswick.

With the above there is also to be sold the

MEADOW near Locks Lane, called "Ribble Lands,"

containing 2a. 2r. 18p. or thereabouts, in the occupation of Mr. T. Brayshaw;

ALSO THE

FARM AT STACKHOUSE,

now in the occupation of Messrs. T. & J. Hesleton.

This Farm contains 126a. 2r. 32p. or thereabouts, and was let during the height of the depression in land at £115 per annum, being a considerable reduction on its former rent. The owner however reserves from the Sale, a plot of land, one acre and a half in extent, at the south-west corner of the field called "Oustry Bank." As this field contains 9½ acres, the reservation of this portion does not materially affect the farm.

It is needless to point out that the proximity of this farm to the dwelling-house is a great advantage as a means of supplying fresh milk, butter, and other farm produce.

It may be noted that the locality is of exceptional salubrity, well wooded, and in the centre of a very picturesque district; rates are very low, whilst its proximity to the Town of Settle affords many social and educational advantages.

The Estate is Customary Freehold, situate in the Manor of Newby, and subject to a "Lord's Rent" of £1 rs. 2d. per annum.

For leave to inspect the house, and for other particulars, apply to

Very seldom does such valuable properties at Malham, Langcliffe, Settle and Giggleswick, come into the market for public sale as those which Messrs. Throup and Kidd, the Skipton auctioneers, are, acting on instructions from Messrs. T. and J. L. Brayshaw, solicitors, of Settle, to bring under the hammer, on the 27th inst., at Settle. Of the lots, the first is probably the most valuable; it comprises Town Head Farm, an excellent holding, with farmhouse and buildings, of about 176 acres, at Malham, where Ruskin occasionally lingered when he had work in hand, and a country whose sublime scenery—so frequently likened to the Holy Land as almost to entitle it to be known as Palestine in Yorkshire—suggested to Charles Kingsley many a pregnant thought which were embodied in his books. Malham, too, is almost as famed for the illustrious names that are associated with it as for its natural attractions, Cromwell and John Lambert being both identified with its local records, the latter owning a large estate in the parish.

For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with the hamlet of Stackhouse, the following extracts from published works are appended.

From Johnson's "Pictorial Handbook to the Valley of the Ribble" (Blackburn, 1884).

"Continuing the road gained by crossing the bridge, you enter Little Stainforth, on the way to Stackhouse, a very pretty village to the right, happily situated at the foot of the rocky and richly wooded hills. Looking around, we feel that this snug little hamlet is a place to sigh for. There is nothing about it modern, jerry or artificial. The houses are staid and substantial: their surroundings clean and green. Comfort and elegance are here united. To the town bred toiler, forced to wear away his life amid the rattle of the power loom, the din of the forge, or the monotonous drudgery of the office, the words of Goldsmith find here an echo which they perhaps fail to awaken when casually read by the fireside:—

'O sweet retirement, friend to life's decline,
Retreat from cares that never must be mine;
How blest is he who crowns in shades like these,
A youth of labour with an age of ease.'

"Walking along the lane towards Settle, shaded on the one hand by luxuriant ash, elm and beech trees, and sheltered on the other by the lofty wooded scars of Giggleswick, the visitor will be highly pleased with the romantic scenery of the valley."

From T. E. Pritt's "Around Settle," (1888),

"Cross over the valley and let us take a peep at the old time hamlet of Stackhouse. Save that a flying track of steam down yonder by the river marks the rush of the nineteenth century, the busy world of to-day has not yet come this way. Peace, contentment and quiet are all around: from generation to generation and from century to century, this little resting place has remained untouched and unmoved by the ruthless hand of change.

"The little hamlet of Stackhouse that has nestled so long and so securely under the eastern side of Giggleswick Scar is just one of those places where the rude world cometh not, and where the holiday maker seeking verdure to soothe his eye and silence to please his ear, may turn and survey the spreading valley beneath him, saying with Ingoldsby 'Here is rest.'"

Lineage.—For a century before the dissolution of the monasteries, a younger branch of a Northumberland family of Carr was settled at Stackhouse and elsewhere in the parish of Giggleswick, Yorkshire. Mention of this branch is made in documents of the Prior and Convent of Durham as holding leases of glebe and tithe lands adjoining Giggleswick, in 1468 and 1473 (see Surtees Society Finchale, Vol. VII.). In 1508 James Carr founded the rood chantry in Giggleswick Church still known as the Carr Chapel, where his nephew, Richard Carr, was found officiating at its suppression in 1547. In 1509, this James Carr bought land adjoining Giggleswick Church, and thereon erected a Grammar School. This benefaction is commemorated by the metrical inscription, still existing, which is over the entrance to the school. In 1513, three members of this family followed Lord Clifford to Flodden (see the Floddon Roll, Sipton Castle MSS.)

RICARDUS DE CARRE held land in Settyll 13 EDWARD IV. and had two sons,

1. JAMES, of whom presently.
2. Robert, d.s.p., mentioned in his brother's will 1528.

The elder son,

JAMES CARR, whose will, dated 7 Nov. 1528, was proved at York, 19 HENRY VII.; he was bur. at Giggleswick. He had two sons,

1. Richard, who held land at Settyll by the will of his father.
2. THOMAS.

The younger son,

At the Dissolution of Monasteries the hamlet of Stackhouse belonged to Furness Abbey, and the following extract is from the "Account of Matmaduke Junstall, holding the office of bailiff there" for the year 1538-39, which is now in the Record Office:-

"Rent in Stackhouse
 And of the rent of divers lands &c. payable at Whitsuntide and Martinmas, viz:-
 Thomas Garre for 1 tenement and 27 acres
 (9 acres each of land, meadow, and pasture) 28s. 2d.
 Thomas Stackhouse for 1 tenement and 15 acres 25s. 1d.
 Oliver Stackhouse for 1 tenement and 19 acres 27s. 10d.
 Richard Brayshaw for 1 tenement and 10 acres 12s. 9½
 Richard Claphame for 1 tenement and 10 acres 12s. 9½ and appointed them executors of his will.

The sum of 18s. a year is regularly paid in respect of this gift by Mrs. Brayshaw of Giggleswick and Miss Lund of Stackhouse, the daughters of John Lund, and Thomas Brayshaw the younger. It is yearly distributed by themselves at Christmas between two poor housekeepers of Giggleswick not having relief from the town.

CHARITABLE TRUSTS

Brown's CHARITY (see page 27).

William Brown, of Stackhouse in the county of York, gentleman, by will, dated the 4th January 1762, gave to Thomas Brayshaw the elder, and William Lund, the sum of 20*l.*, upon trust that they and their heirs should pay the interest arising therefrom to two poor housekeepers of the township of Giggleswick (not being pensioners) on the 25th December yearly; the said legacy to be paid at the end of 12 months next after his decease; and the testator charged his messuages, lands and hereditaments therein-before devised unto John Lund and Thomas Brayshaw the younger, with the payment thereof, and appointed them executors of his will.

Brown's Charity.

The sum of 18*s.* a year is regularly paid in respect of this gift by Mrs. Brayshaw of Giggleswick and Miss Lund of Stackhouse, the daughters of John Lund, and Thomas Brayshaw the younger. It is yearly distributed by themselves at Christmas between two poor housekeepers of Giggleswick not having relief from the town.
