

Robert Weymes, the gardener to the Stansfeld family

19th century houses didn't have domestic gardens as such; families kept pigs and wildfowl in back yards for a bit of extra food. 'Gardeners' worked in the grounds of the large estates – think Capability Brown in Settle. As the quality of memorial stones demonstrate, despite being in service to someone else, this was a lucrative occupation.

Robert Weymes, born in 1812, named a variety of birth places throughout his life including Northamptonshire, Westmorland and London! In 1845 he married Ann Saville from Heworth, York, and their first child, Louisa was born at Kilwick Percy, a small village in the grounds of the Kilwick Percy Hall (now a Buddhist meditation centre). The current building was completed in 1845 and Robert was employed as a gardener, probably to help establish the gardens.

Robert moved to Cowling Hall near Skipton, working as Head Gardener and employing two men. By 1853, son George Robert was born in Settle. Robert ran his own business as a gardener and seedsman, living at Green Head in Upper Settle [SC]. By 1857 the family had moved to Chapel Street and could afford a servant, probably linked to Robert's appointment as gardener to George Stansfeld at Ashfield on Duke Street.

In affectionate remembrance of Robert Weymes of Settle who died Feb 2, 1868 aged 54 years. The Lord is my shepherd I shall not want. Also Mary Louisa Agar niece of R & A Weymes who died June 17 1872 aged 22. years. Her end was at peace. Also of Ann, widow of the above who died June 8 1885, aged 74 years. Rest in the Lord, B2

Robert and Ann's daughter, Louisa Weymes, had the honour of working as nursemaid to the family of Reverend Hogarth Swale, the first vicar of the church at Ingfield Hall (now The Falcon Manor) before she married a carpenter James Aitkins.

James became the 'estate carpenter' at Bolton Abbey.

Robert and Ann's son, George Robert Weymes was 'one of the best wicket keepers Settle ever had' [CH].

He became a plumber and married Alice Ann Overing, a tailor's daughter - see below. Alice died, aged 37, after the birth of her third son and is buried in the Old grave E39 all by herself.

many eyes have been told of his unimpaired tongue. G. R. Weymes, one of the best wicket-keepers Settle ever had; Jack Silverwood, whose name is mentioned in the

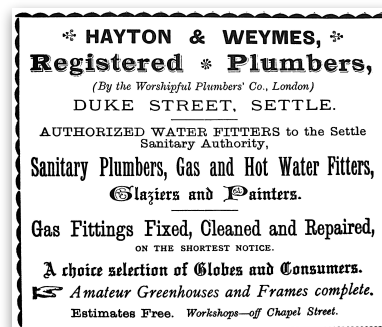

In Loving Memory of Alice Ann the beloved wife of Geo. R Weymes of Gisburn, born March 4th 1862 died April 29th 1899. Thy Will Be Done, Old E39

After Alice died, George Robert went into business with William Hayton, the son of John Hayton the bookbinder [LSA]. George married again and his new wife Margaret Tebay helped him bring up the children and they moved to Clitheroe.

Robert and Ann also brought up their niece, Mary Ann Louisa Agar. She has her own grave and gravestone. Mary Ann was born in Sheriff Hutton, York, the youngest of five children of Ann Saville and James Agar, an agricultural labourer. Mary Ann was less than a year old when her mum died in 1851 and still only four when her dad died in 1854. So, Mary Ann Louisa was brought up by her aunt, Ann Weymes, in Settle. In 1871, Mary Ann Louisa worked in the grand Hanover Square in Leeds with her cousin Elizabeth Ann Saville. They were 'waiting maids' to Mrs Sarah Charlesworth, the mother of Charles Henry Charlesworth. Charles had established himself as a solicitor in Settle. Mary Ann Louisa died a year later, aged just 22.

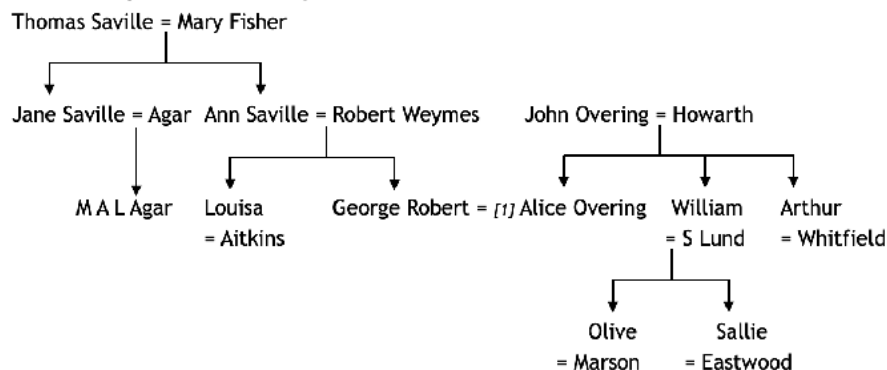

Mary Ann's brothers all survived and she was clearly in touch with them after their parents' death. Her brother, Saville Agar, married Margaret Ann Knowles in Settle in 1872. Margaret was the daughter of Mary (Harger) Knowles who had died at Margaret's birth. Margaret was brought up by relations. Saville, a gardener, and Margaret lived in Dringhouses, in York. Saville won awards for his turnips and celery.

Death from Exposure near West Hartlepool.
 —An inquest was held at West Hartlepool yesterday afternoon on the body of Thomas Saville Agar (53), late foreman in a grain warehouse at West Hartlepool. Deceased, who had been suffering from influenza, resided in Sunderland-street. He left his home for a walk on Saturday morning, and later the same day was seen wandering in a field near Dalton Piercy, about four miles from West Hartlepool. He was afterwards seen to get over a hedge into another field and sit down. Nothing more was seen or heard of him until about nine o'clock on Sunday night, when his dead body was found in a field belonging to Mr Dobson, farmer.—Mr John Frizzle, retired farmer, said he found deceased lying on his back. He was then dead, and the body quite cold. There were no marks of violence on the body.—Dr. Biggart said he was of opinion that death was due to exhaustion, caused by exposure to the weather.—The jury returned a verdict to that effect.

Saville, Weymes and Overing families

Mary Ann's bother Thomas Saville Agar died suddenly at the age of 53 from exhaustion and exposure following influenza after a life working in a grain warehouse [1]. Some families just don't have much luck.

John Overing, tailor

John, born in 1823 in Airton, was the only son of carpenter Timothy Overing and Ann Ell who died soon after John's birth. Timothy remarried and had several other children. Timothy, via his sister Ellen Overing, was an uncle of John Preston who ran the Joiner's Arms in Duke Street, Settle for decades.

By the time of the 1841 census 17 year old John was serving an apprenticeship with draper Thomas Walker in the Market Place (on the site of the current Coop) and, according to adverts [SC, LSA], had set up his own drapery business by 1843. He sold 'Gent's felt and tweed hats, firs, handkerchiefs, mufflers, collars, cuffs and braces'. He also had 'a splendid stock of ready made clothing'. Ready made clothing was quite a novelty in those days as the wealthy used tailors to make clothes for them and the poor used a variety of home-made or hand-me-downs.

In 1844 John married Elizabeth Howarth from Prestwich, Lancashire and they had five sons and daughter Alice (who married George Robert Weymes, above) while they lived in Chapel Street. The first two sons, John and James died in infancy. A further son named John also died in infancy. Sadly a 50% infant mortality rate was not unusual in those days. They had two other sons, William and Arthur.

John ran a successful business with apprentices working for him at the time of each census return. His apprentices included Robert Hamilton, son of Annie Hamilton who married James Twisleton.

Settle Graveyard Project

By the time of the 1861 census John was working from a property in Duke Street near the Golden Lion. His neighbours for many years were ironmonger George Ambler and banker Frank Ellis. In 1874 John and neighbour George Ambler's businesses were sufficiently successful to enable them to purchase their properties in a mania for acquiring house property [2]. The auctioneer was John Cowburn.

SETTLE.

PROPERTY SALE.—The mania for acquiring house property in Settle has hardly yet shown signs of subsidence, as was proved by the sale of three shops in Duke street on Monday evening. Mr. John Overing and Mr. George Ambler purchased the premises they occupy, and Mr. William Dawson was the purchaser of the curriers shop, occupied by Mrs. Adlyman. The property realised something over £1,500, which is almost twice the amount it was valued at about 10 years ago. Mr. W. Hartley acted as solicitor for the vendor, and Mr. John Cowburn was the auctioneer.

John died in 1885, aged 61 and is buried in the Ancient graveyard in an unmarked grave, hopefully with his three infant children. It's surprising he wasn't given a gravestone by descendants, especially as he left a sizeable estate.

So what happened to their surviving sons?

John and his sons William and Arthur were active members of the Liberal Club and elected LIBERAL CLUB.—The 18th annual general meeting of the members of the above club was held at club, on Monday last. Mr. F. Holmes presided, and there were present about 50 others. The treasurer's report showed the Club to be in a good position. There is an increase of members during the year. The number on the register is 112. A good selection of papers and periodicals was made for the next six months. The library proves a great attraction. During the year 1413 books have been issued, renewal not being counted as separate issues. J. A. Farrer, Esq., was elected President. Mr. Charles J. Lord was re-elected Hon. Secretary, and Messrs. W. and A. Overing were elected Treasurers. General and Registration Committees were elected. The following were elected Librarians:—Messrs. B. Clark, A. Overing, Wm. Gyte, H. Roberts, J. Thwaite, James Butler, John Overing, and Edward Lord.

Treasurers. [4]. William was a fine cricketer and so was probably good friends with brother-in-law George Robert Weymes. There are numerous reports of William's success especially as a bowler. This is typical [2]. The report was rather generous, 'a well contested game' — Settle were well and truly beaten on this occasion.

CLAPHAM.

CRICKET.—CLAPHAM v. SETTLE —A cricket match was played at Clapham on Saturday, the 20th inst., between the Clapham and Settle Clubs. It was a well contested game, ending in favour of Clapham on the first innings. The bowling of W. Overing and Lister was good, being continually on the spot. Mr. Lister's batting was very good. The fielding was good, and some capital catches were made on both sides. The following is the score:—

William continued his father's business in Duke Street and looked after mum Elizabeth until she died in 1914, aged 90! William married Sallie Lund and they had two daughters. William and Sallie's son, Alfred, had died in infancy. Sally died after the birth of the second daughter, unsurprisingly also named Sallie, in 1911, so William brought up the girls alone. William was also known to make an 'Ulster' coat [ph1] for Dr Buck. This musical connection was important to this family as William was a founder and led the Settle Choral Society and was the organist at Settle Parish Church. William and Sallie's daughter, Olive Overing, was a talented pianist, having been taught by Fred Lord, another church organist. She accompanied the early silent movies projected in Settle and had to adapt the style of her playing to suit the mood of the film whether it was lively, sad, tense etc. That takes some skill! She was well acquainted with Dr Charles William Buck and joined his musical evenings, occasionally joined by composer, Edward Elgar. Olive was trained to sing by Mary Benson who dominated the Amateur Operatic Society for years. Olive later married Sidney Marson, a wireless radio engineer who came from Leeds. They lived in Kirkgate in Settle. William and Sallie's second daughter Sallie married Victor Eastwood Eastwood, a weaver and the son of William Eastwood Eastwood of Earby. How strange! William Eastwood Eastwood's father was called Eastwood Eastwood and he was the illegitimate son of Ann Eastwood. Victor and Sallie lived in Earby.

William Overing died in 1926, aged 77 and is buried in the unmarked grave Old DX21 with wife Sallie, infant son Alfred and mum Elizabeth.

Meanwhile John and Elizabeth's son Arthur Overing was a clever lad. Several reports celebrate him winning prizes in spelling bee competitions [CH]. After an education at Giggleswick School Arthur also entered his father's business. However, he was a bit of an entrepreneur! During the 1890s Arthur sold garden seeds which may have been linked to his role as secretary to the North Ribblesdale Horticultural Society [LSA]. By the time of the 1901 census Arthur had become a cycle dealer, selling, repairing and teaching customers how to cycle – bicycles were becoming very popular in the early 1900s. By 1911 he was an 'agent and traveller' in Barnoldswick. Arthur also worked as a full time correspondent for several North Ribblesdale newspapers.

SPELLING BEE.—One of these popular entertainments was given under the auspices of the Scaleber Lodge of Good Templars, in the Mechanics' Hall, on Friday evening, the 17th inst. Mr. Brockbank acted as both referee and interrogator, and performed the arduous duties of his office to the complete satisfaction of all. The ladies carried all before them, the first prize being won by Miss Elizabeth Leeming, and the second by Miss Jane Isabella Preston. In a second tournament, the first prize fell to Mr. Arthur Overing, and the second to Miss Polly Harger. Several other contests were engaged in, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. The dictionary adopted as a standard was Nuttall's (Warne's edition).

Like his brother, Arthur was a talented musician, being clarinetist of 'more than local repute', leading the Settle Amateur Orchestra and also being an organist at Settle Parish Church. He was secretary for the Craven Vocalists. During the war Arthur was a shell inspector at Woolwich, Blackburn and Manchester for which he received a good service medal from Lloyd George.

In 1876 Arthur married Mary Whitfield from Dent and this was to be a long and happy relationship. They had four sons and three daughters although, again, three sons, Matthew, William and an unnamed son died in infancy and are buried in the Ancient graveyard. Two of the daughters, Elizabeth and Johannah were twins, who survived! In 1936 Arthur and Mary were able to celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary [3] just a few years before they died, in January 1939, within hours of each other. They were buried at the

OLD COUPLE BURIED TOGETHER

The funeral took place at Barnoldswick, yesterday, of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Overing, who died last Saturday within a few hours of each other. The town's oldest married couple, they celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary over three years ago. They were very devoted, and had expressed the hope that one would not long outlive the other. Mr. Overing was 87 and his wife 84. Their remains were interred in one grave.

MARRIED 60 YEARS.
Barnoldswick Couple's Diamond Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Overing, of Wellington Street, Barnoldswick, celebrated their diamond wedding yesterday.

Mr. Overing, who is 83, was born at Settle. After leaving Giggleswick School, he entered his father's business as a men's outfitter in Settle, and later acted as correspondent for several newspapers. Entering the motor cycle trade, he built up a flourishing business. During the War he was a shell inspector at Woolwich, Blackburn and Manchester.

For many years Mr. Overing played in the Settle Amateur Orchestra. He was also a member of the Craven Vocalists.

Mrs. Overing, who is 81, was born at Gawthrop, near Dent. The couple have four children, 14 grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

same time in Barnoldswick [3]. If the press are to be believed, they had four children, 14 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren! Arthur and Mary's son John Whitfield Overing, another tailor, married firstly Ann Moore, the sister of Rathmell's John Moore and then Blanche Duxbury, the daughter of the Settle oatcake maker William Duxbury.

This relic of 'Overing and Sons' was found in an antique shop in Newark in January 2024! [ph2].
