Dear Madam,

I have been requested to convey to you the thanks of the Commercial Superintendent of the London Midland Region for the valuable services given by you to the unfortunate casualties in the mishap at Blea Moor on the 18th April, 1952, when you freely placed your house at the disposal of the injured passengers and performed other acts of kindness, including the provision of linen for bandages, etc.

Your hospitality and resourcefulness are highly appreciated and I wish to add my own personal thanks to you for your timely assistance.
