

Percy's dad?

TELEGRAPH WIRES TO KETTLEWELL.

To the Editor of the Craven Herald.

SIR,—It is with pleasure I find from the newspapers that another attempt is about to be made to induce the Post Office authorities to construct telegraphic wires to Grassington and Kettlewell. The great want of a railway has made the population of Grassington, Kettlewell, and other villages gradually decrease for the last twenty years, consequently cottage property has every year been decreasing in value. Every improvement for the public good ought to be encouraged and patronised by the inhabitants of the district. We have lived in yearly expectations of a railway for the last twenty-five years, which, if made, would benefit Skipton and the whole district.—I am, yours, &c.,

PARKINSON INMAN.

Kettlewell, May 16, 1876.

Re
wh
wa
lim
wh
par
Ap
you

we
Es
Co sta
lar
en
all

Craven Herald

Large Grocers, 150, Commercial Street.

KETTLEWELL.

Inman, Parkinson, Manchester House, Wholesale and Retail Draper, Grocer, and General Warehouseman.

ASKRIGG